Death of Hon. Henry S. Magraw.

Hon. Henry S. Magraw, of Elkton, Cecil county, Md., a member of the Maryland Assembly, died in this city yesterday morning at nine o'clock, from a stoke of apoplexy. Mr. Magraw was formerly State Treasurer of Pennsylvania, and it will be recollected that after the first Bull Run battle he, with Mr. Arnold Harris, was captured by the Confederates while attempting to recover the body of Colonel Cameron, brother of the then Secretary of War, and was held a prisoner in Richmond four or five months. He applied to Secretary Cameron for a flag-of-truce to go through the lines to bring home the body of Col. Cameron, but the Secretary, for prudential reasons not desiring to recognize the rebels as belligerents, declined to grant a flag-of-truce. Mr. Magraw and Mr. Harris assumed the personal risk and were captured, and notwithstanding repeated appeals made to Jeff. Davis by prominent Confederates for their release on the ground of old friendships, personal and in the Democratic party, he refused, and they were kept in close confinement.

The deceased, who was possessed of an ample fortune, possessed many genial qualities, which had attracted to him a large circle of social friends. He was stricken down on Tuesday evening, and, although he recognized some of his friends, he was unable to speak before he died. He was visited by Secretary Stanton, Judge Black, of Pennsylvania, Col. Lamon, and others who had been associated with him in public life. Mr. Magraw's father died of apoplexy; also one of his brothers, and another brother now lies ill of the same in Baltimore.—National Intelligencer, 2d ult.

GENERAL SHERIDAN AT THE CAPITOL.—The Washington Chronicle of February 6th says: Major General Philip Sheridan visited the Capitol yesterday, in company with General Grant. His appearance in the hall of the House of Representatives was the signal for a marked tribute of respect on the part of that body. As soon as it was ascertained that he was on the floor of the House, General Robert C. Shenck, Chairman of the House Committee on Military Affairs, arose, and interrupting the regular proceedings, announced the presence of the distinguished chieftain, at the same time moving a recess of five minutes, that the general might be presented to the House. The motion being unanimously agreed to, Speaker Colfax immediately left the chair, and proceeding to that part of the hall where General Sheridan was standing in company with General Grant, escorted both of them to the Speaker's stand, amid great applause from the floor and from the galleries. In a neat speech, Speaker Colfax presented General Sheridan to the House, and then introduced each member separately. At the close of these ceremonies General Sheridan walked over to Hon. Thaddeus Stevens and greeted him with a warm shake of the hands. He afterward occupied a seat between Mr. Stevens and General Schenck. It is seldom that so cordial a welcome is extended to any distinguished visitor by the House of Representatives. In the case of General Sheridan, however, the tribute was both appreprate and deserved. We noticed that he met with an especially warm welcome from the Republican side of the House, and the outbursts of applause from the galleries showed how well Sheridan is appreciated and honored by the people.

AN ANECDOTE WORTH PRESERVING.—A Paris correspondent vouches for the truth of the following. True or false, it is a good story, and will bear repetition:

A Frenchman, a prisoner in Edinburgh, having managed to escape, took refuge in the powder magazine. When the authorities wished to seize him, they found him sitting on a barrel with a lighted match, and threatening to blow up the town. The authorities reflected prudently, and the result of their deliberations was that it would be better to starve the Frenchman out. But they reckoned without their prisoner, who loved good cheer and was determined to live well. In consequence he called out that he would blow the town to pieces if he did not get three meals a day—he would write out the bill of fare. Sawney succumbed, and the demands of the prisoner went on increasing. Sometimes he had a serenade under his window; then a review of the garrison; afterwards a sham fight, in which the troops representing the French army beat the Highlanders. At last he exacted that every Sabbath morning, before breakfast, the Lord Provost, in full uniform, should make his appearance and read him an address. This lasted until the allies entered Paris.

THE PARIS EXPOSITION.—The tariff of prices for admission to the forthcoming Paris Exposition has been published. There are to be three separate inclosures—the park, containing the Exhibition building itself, the Horticultural Gardens, and the Billancourt inclosure, which is especially devoted to agricultural matters. The prices for the first week of the Exhibition are exceptional, and are to be $4 in gold on the opening day, and $1 on the subsequent days. After the 8th of April, 20 cents admission will be charged to the park and 30 cents to the Horticultural Garden. The Billancourt inclosure will have a special tariff of entrance fees, not yet decided upon. For a season ticket to the Exhibition $20 will be charged for a gentleman, and $12 for a lady. Season tickets are to bear photographs of their holders.

THE POPULATION OF EUROPEAN CITIES.—In 1866 censuses were takin in Great Britain and France, and the reports show the following population of the principal cities: London, 3,037,991; Paris, 1,825,274; Liverpool, 484,337; Glasgow, 432,265; Manchester, 353,853; Birmingham, 335,798; Lyons, 323,954; Dublin, 318,437; Marseilles, 300,131; Leeds, 236,187; Sheffield, 218,257; Bordeaux, 194,341; Edinburg, 175,128; Bristol, 163,630; Lille, 154,779; Toulouse, 126,936; Newcastle-on-Tyne, 122,277; Salford, 112,671; Nantes, 111,936; Hull, 105,233, and Rouen, 100,671. Philadelphia, it will be seen, has a much greater population than any of these cities, after London and Paris.

THE value of the estate of the late Edward Mott Robinson, whose will is just admitted to probate at New York, his daughter Hetty having withdrawn her opposition to it, is sworn at four and a half millions. The will, as now finally sustained, leaves Miss Hetty $900,000 in her own right, $10,000 to each of the executors, $10,000 to the town of South Kingston, Rhode Island, for educational purposes, and the remainder of his estate to the executors in trust for Miss Robinson. The United States stamp duty on the will amounts to $9,250.

"Constitutional Rights"—An Old-Time Panacea.

Confessedly in undisguised and openly-avowed antagonism, not only to the opinions of the whole country, but also to the laws of Congress, the Mormon leaders are ever complaining of the violation of their "Constitutional rights," in the refusal to admit them into the Union as a sovereign State. Every year does Brigham Young, "Governor of Deseret," in his Annual Message to his Legislature, revamp the complaint. Hardly a Sermon is delivered of which this is not the burthen, and their press from time to time expatiates fluently on the theme. Orson Hyde, one of the "Twelve Apostles," in one of his numerous circulars to the people holds the same language, wherein he says, "It is partly to obtain our constitutional rights that we have so often memorialized Congress to be admitted into the Union as a State, but more especially to comply with the requirements of Heaven, believing that a series of importunities on our part, and a series of refusals on the part of Congress, will cause the nation again to mourn more sadly than it ever yet has done."

Laying aside any expression of opinion on the Saintly charity which induces the Apostle to indulge in "importunities" which he knows before hand will not be granted, for the declared purpose of making the nation to mourn so sadly, we pass on briefly to examine the foundation of this "Constitutional right." These sage expounders of the Constitution, who affect to find in it a sanction for practices condemned alike in the pagan and Christian world for nineteen centuries, fail to point out any clause in that instrument which confers upon them any "right" to admission into the Union. The Constitution provides that Congress "may admit new States," implying the exercise of a wise discretion in that body. While it imposes no restriction, it on the other hand enjoins no duty on the Congress, and confers no right on any other organization, Territory or State, foreign or domestic.

The whole system of Territorial Governments as at present organized has grown up since the adoption of the Constitution, and whatever political privileges (they have no Constitutional rights,) they exercise, are such, and such only as Congress, in the plenitude of its power and pleasure, has conferred upon them.

Under the Ordinance of 1787, for the government of the North West Territory, it was originally provided that the Governor and the three Judges of the Court should exercise all governmental functions in the adoption of laws, subject to the approval of Congress, and in the appointment of minor officers. Provision, it is true, was made for elections by the people of a House of Representatives at a subsequent period, but even then the Legislative Council was to be selected by Congress, and the Governor, appointed by Congress, had an absolute veto power on every act of legislation. This Ordinance continued by Act of Congress long after the adoption of the Constitution, and the Territories only exercised such political privileges as Congress deemed prudent. The doctrine of "Squatter Sovereignty," so much elaborated by Douglas and his compeers in 1854, and during Anti-Lecompton times, was a modern invention. But even Douglas and the most rabid of squatter sovereigns never placed the doctrine on the ground of Constitutional right, but on the score of policy, to take from the floor of Congress an exciting and dangerous subject of discussion.

It is only in Utah that we hear of the Constitutional rights of the people of a Territory, as applied to political matters. And under such teaching, and such continual "harping on my daughter," the mass of the people are being educated to believe that they are sorely oppressed, and deprived of their Constitutional rights by an inimical Government. The fact is, however, that not only have the people of a Territory no political rights whatever, but they are enjoying a great many privileges to which they are not entitled, except through the kindness of the General Government. It is entirely competent for Congress to repeal the Organic Act, and legislate solely for the Territory themselves, or to vest the entire Legislative, Executive and Judicial functions in a Governor and a Council of Judges, as was originally done under the Ordinance of 1787. Not only is this course Constitutionally competent, but there are not a few who believe that it is the true method of governing the Territories, especially and pre-eminently the Territory of Utah. The disgraceful scenes enacted in some of our neighboring Territories, and the recklessness and extravagance of almost all new countries, strongly suggest the propriety of returning to the old system of Territorial Governments devised by the very framers of the Constitution and the founders of our Government.

If the "Mormon question," which attracts a good deal of attention just now, cannot be solved in any other more satisfactory manner, it might not be amiss if our Congressmen would go back and read the Ordinance of 1787, and extract therefrom a Panacea for the evils which Territories—and especially the Mormon Territory—are heirs to.

If the Territory of Utah chooses to array itself against the authority of the Federal Government, and insists on nullifying the laws of Congress, through the very means and machinery of Courts and juries, conferred gratuitously upon them, all that Congress has to do is to remodel the Territorial organization, and resume the powers it undoubtedly possesses. This is a matter worthy the consideration of the Church leaders, and a course neither unconstitutional, unjust nor impracticable.

De Bow, editor of the Southern Review, died yesterday at Elizabethtown, N. J., after a brief illness.

Washington, February 28.

The Judiciary Committee of the House made a report to-day, denouncing Polygamy as contrary to the spirit of the Christian religion, a relic of heathenism and barbarism, subversive of the marriage relation where tolerated—simply legalized prostitution. No greater outrage on freedom of religious faith could be perpetrated than to require the people of any nation to sanction or approve by law a practice so deeply offensive. Alluding to the assertion of the recent Memorial of the Utah Legislature, that no effort had been made to enforce the Anti-Polygamy law, the Committee say the fact is humiliating, and it it is in consequence of the neglect of the Federal Judges they ought to be removed; but if the failure arises from other causes it is the duty of the President to see that the law is executed.

Washington, February 28.

The House this evening consented to the Senate's request for a Committee of Conference on the Bankrupt bill. A test vote to lay on the table was lost by ten majority.

Senate amendments to the bill for the organization of land districts in Idaho, Montana and Utah were non-concurred in, and a Committee of Conference asked.

Senate amendments to bill for the erection of light-houses were concurred in.

After a lengthy debate on the Compound Interest bill, during which a motion to table was made by Lynch, the Senate's amendments were rejected—55 to 83. The House then asked a Committee of Conference.

Senate's amendment to House joint resolution for the erection of an equestrian statue of General Scott was concurred in.

The proper proportion of surgeons, hospital stewards, ambulances, medical stores, and the necessary transportation, will be furnished.

The House, after refusing by nine majority to lay the Bankrupt bill on the table, appointed a Conference Committee to meet the Senate. The friends of the bill regard this action as indicating its passage through both Houses.

Albany, February 28.

The New York Senate this evening adopted amendments to the bill for calling a Constitutional Convention, allowing citizens without distinction of color to vote for delegates, and excluding from voting deserters and those engaged in the late Rebellion.

Nashville, February 28.

The preamble alleges that in several counties violence prevails over civil law, and riot and murder go unpunished.

Raleigh, February 28.

Scaggin introduced in the Lower House to-day, a resolution expressing the willingness of North Carolina to accept, in good faith, the proposed plan of Congress for the reconstruction of the Southern States. The resolution created much excitement. Animated discussion ensued, and it was finally referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

Washington, February 28.

General Thayer, Senator elect from Nebraska, arrived to-night, and submitted to the President a copy of an Act passed by the Legislature of that State, accepting the conditions imposed by Congress. The President will soon issue a proclamation recognizing Nebraska as a State, when the Senators and Representatives from that State will be admitted to Congress.

New York, March 1.

A Tribune special says the opinion prevails that the President is holding back his veto of the Military Government bill so that the Democrats may filibuster the bill to death when the Message appears.

Louisianians in Washington say that if the Military Government bill becomes a law, Gov. Wells, of that State, will at once order an election for delegates to a convention to remodel the Constitution, and have Louisiana represented in Congress as soon as possible.

FREE NAVIGATION OF THE AMAZON.—By virtue of a recent decree of the Brazilian Government, the Amazon with its two eastern tributaries, the Tocontines and the San Francisco, has been opened to the trade of all nations. The valley of the Amazon is the largest watered valley on the globe. Its agricultural resources are as much greater as its area is more extensive than the valley of the Mississippi. The latter contains about 1,200,000 square miles, while the former contains not less than 2,500,000 square miles. Four of the largest South American States are reached through its navigable waters. Its affluents extend into the Andes, watering Peru and some of the othes Pacific States. Within a few days, the telegraph has announced that an exploration of the Mayro, Pichira and Acayoli rivers, two short streams heading in the Andes and flowing into the Pacific, shows that a water communication can be made from the Pacific to the Atlantic. It has long been known that these Western rivers had their sources near the head waters of some of the chief tributaries of the Amazon, the proximity of sources being not unlike those of the Columbia and Missouri rivers. But it is hardly probable that the Amazon will be reached through any navigable waters flowing into the Pacific. The vast chain on the Andes would seem to present insuperable obstacles even to the construction of a canal. It is much more likely that at no distant day a railroad, having its initial point at Callao or Valparaiso, will pierce the Andes, as our railroad now pierces the Sierras, and thus open by a short route a commercial highway from the Pacific to the navigable waters of the Amazon.

It is through the enlightened influence of Brazil, headed by her progressive and worthy Emperor, that the barriers to the free navigation af the Amazon and its tributaries, to the extent mentioned, have been broken down. The great Southern tributaries were closed by the narrow and despotic policy of Lopez, the Dictator of Paraguay, notwithstanding his father had previously, by treaties, stipulated that the navigation of these tributaries should be free for all nations. It was the non-fulfillment of these treaties which caused Brazil to declare war against Paraguay, and not for the purpose of territorial aggrandizement, as has been so often asserted. Brazil in this effort is entitled to the sympathy of the enlightened world, nor will she be likely to give up the struggle until the last barrier to commercial progress has been broken down in the valley of the Amazon.—San Francisco Bulletin.

SPIRITUALISM IN THE PATENT OFFICE.—A curious application for a patent has been made by a New Yorker for a process to determine the falsity or truth of spiritualism. It consists of a room closed perfectly, so that all air and light is effectually excluded, except air for breathing, which is admitted from a stop-cock, opened from time to time. Light is only admitted by being passed through a dark blue, violet or black liquid, so that the room is perfectly dark to the unaccustomed eye, but becomes slightly illuminated when remaining long in it, the inventor asserting that the particles of common light are much too heavy and solid compared with the much finer constituents of the bodies of spirits; therefore common light passes through them, and is not reflected from their surface; to see spirits at all the light must be first filtered. The room is to be painted with spirits of turpentine, or any other spirits, mixed with substances akin to carbon. The inventor asserts that with these precautions it may become possible for the inmates of the room to see spirits, forms or ghosts. He claims the use of filtered light in a closed room for the purposes of divination. The patent was refused, on the ground that when a company of persons were for some time inclosed in such a room, without sufficient air to breathe, they will not only see ghosts, but also give up their own.—Philadelphia Ledger.

HANDSOMELY DONE.—General Sheridan, a few days ago, sent to Miss Rebecca Wright, of Winchester, Va., an elegant gold watch, an exquisitely wrought chain, a brooch and charms. The brooch is of gold, beautifully wrought into a gauntlet, and set with pearls. One of the charms, as a correspondent informs us, is a sword set with very costly diamonds. Accompanying this magnificent gift was an autograph letter from General Sheridan, acknowledging Miss Wright's services, which led to the General's success at Winchester, in the battle of the nineteenth of September, 1864.

Miss Wright was a young Quakeress, well known for her faith in the united nationality, and understood to be willing to aid the cause at any sacrifice. When General Sheridan was in great doubt how to act he sent a scout to the lady, who, writing upon a slip of paper which she inclosed in a tinfoil, directed it to be placed in the mouth that it might escape the enemy's search, and thus furnished the information that enabled the General to achieve his victory.

TO REGULATE THE BUSINESS OF ASSAYING.—The bill to regulate the business of assaying within the State of Nevada has become a law. It requires that assayers shall make out and file with the County Clerk at the end of each month a statement, subscribed and sworn to, setting forth the name and place of residence of every person who, within such month, deposited bullion or amalgam for retorting, melting, refining or assaying, together with the date of the deposit, the amount then deposited, and the name of the mine, mill, blanket, sluice or other source from which the same was obtrined. A fine of not less than one thousand dollars nor more than five thousand dollars may be imposed upon those who refuse or neglect to comply with the provisions of the law.

LOSS OF LIFE.—The Washington Chronicle of February 6th, has the following:

Saturday evening last, about ten o'clock, the foot bridge at Black River, New York, broke down with six persons on it, two of whom were drowned, viz: Miss Jane Poor, daughter of Aaron Poor, Esq., and Mrs. Aaron Poor, Jr., daughter of R. P. Smith, Esq., of that place. They were all precipitated into the river, but four of them. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gillespie, Mr. Aaron Poor, Jr., and Warren Lester got ashore; three of them went down through the rapids about one hundred rods and crawled out on the ice on still water. Mr. Lester caught hold of the broken wire and held by it, and was swung around by the force of the current to the shore.

From the North.

The Owyhee Avalanche of the 23d ultimo, has the following:

Dalles accounts to the 5th say Captain McKay's command of Indian scouts had a fight with "Paulina's" band on an eastern branch of the Deschutes—Crooked river—killed twenty-six, took eight prisoners, some arms, ammunition and stock. Old "Paulina" escaped unhurt. One scout was wounded.

Hill Beachy has purchased the interest of his partners in the Railroad Stage Line from Silver City to Hunter's Station, and is now sole proprietor. The purchase and change were completed on Wednesday of this week. His right bowers—Division Agents—will be John Early, Charley Combs and Charley Barnes, all of whom are old and thoroughly posted stage men. With such an unrivaled stage proprietor and efficient corps of assistants, the Railroad Line cannot fail to increase in popular favor. Seven to eight days to or from San Francisco now; one year ago no communication, and when a break up did come it took several months to gather up and deliver the mails of previous months.

The new military district and the useful actions of its commander with the additional powers conferred upon him, inspires Mr. Beachy with renewed energy and belief that his line will be protected and his past labors not be sacrificed. We most heartily congratulate him upon his success and future prospects.

He has sold his line from Owyhee to Boise City, to Messrs. Hailey, Greathouse & Co., who will continue to run it with the same regularity and time as under the old management. This company is well known as the proprietors of the daily line from Boisa City to Umatilla, Oregon, and from Boise City to Idaho City. The public will be equally well served all round.

Private information from Boise City is to the effect that Jimmy Dwyer and Jack Redman are in training for a fight. Stakes, $600. From the best information we can get the fight will come off two weeks from to-morrow.

Mr. Monahon arrived from Snake river yesterday. His ferry, of which we made mention some weeks ago, is finished and running. The largest and heaviest loaded teams can easily be put across. It is located where it is protected from high winds, and nothing will delay crossing at all times.

In our item on the result of some first-class Silver Cord ore, we gave $2,600 per ton and it sould have been $26,000. There were several tons of immensely rich gold ore taken out last fall, and we have little doubt but that many more will this year.

In the early part of last week a scene occurred at Camp Smith that set the valley of White Horse in a blaze. As the news comes to us, the commander of the post had issued orders that no liquors be kept, either for sale or use, within the encampment. The sutler having on hand a barrel of pure spirits had concealed it by burying it in the ground, and supposed no one knew of its whereabouts except himself. A mail rider on the Chico route, however, found out the hidden treasure, and with a number of soldiers went and exhumed it in the night time, carrying several camp-kettles filled with its contents into the quarters, where an immense drunk was indulged in. The corporal of the guard, then on duty, vainly endeavored to quiet the rioters by every means suggested to himself, until at length a brilliant thought flashed through his intellect, and he determined to spill the liquor in the fire. No sooner did the spirits touch the coals than the flames filled the house rendering it extremely difficult for the inmates to escape without being roasted alive. The floors and roofs of several tenements were soon consumed, besides blankets, clothing, arms, ammunition, provisions, etc., the full extent of which we have not learned. The Chico rider and a number of soldiers are in the guard-house awaiting court-martial. Two soldiers stole a couple of horses, the private property of Major Myers, deserted and started for Lemhi next day, but were overtaken at Snake river by Captain Conrad and Mr. Pickett—General Crook's scout—and taken back for trial.

CORN AND HOGS.—From carefully conducted experiments, by different persons, it has been ascertained that one bushel of corn will make a little over 10½ pounds of pork—gross. Taking the result as a basis, the following deductions are made, which all our farmers would do well to lay by for a convenient reference—That:

When corn sells for 12½ cents per bushel, pork costs 1½ cents per pound.

When corn costs 17 cents per bushel, pork costs 2 cents a pound.

When corn costs 25 cents per bushel, pork costs 3 cents per pound.

When corn costs 33 cents per bushel, pork costs 4 cents per pound.

When corn costs 50 cents per bushel, pork costs 5 cents per pound.

The following statement shows what the farmer realizes in his corn when sold in the form of pork:

When pork sells for 8 cents per pound it brings 25 cents per bushel in corn.

When pork sells for 4 cents per pound it brings 32 cents per bushel in corn.

When pork sells for 5 cents per pound it brings 45 cents per bushel in corn.

SHOOTING AFFRAY IN COVINGTON.—The Louisville Journal of February 8th, says:

On Tuesday night, at a late hour, two young men, named Richard Davis and William Hays, met another young man named W. L. Baker, formerly of Alexandria, Campbell county, walking along Sixth street, in Covington, and having an old grudge against him, one of them struck him on the head with a heavy stick, and the other drew a revolver and commenced firing at him. Baker also had a revolver, and fired four times at his assailants, but without effect. Baker was shot through the left shoulder. One of the balls from the pistol of either Hays or Davis passed through the folds of the dress of Mrs. Roudenbush, who was standing at a window in the second story of her house. After a long search, the missile was found in a handkerchief in Mrs. Roudenbush's pocket. That she escaped being shot, seems, under the circumstances, almost miraculous. Davis and Hays have not been arrested.

DAN RICE.—This famous man of the ring vaulted into our presence yesterday in a state of preservation refreshing to behold. He seemed to have taken a summer-sault backward in years, for he appeared to be but 20 years of age. "Eighteen last birth day," however, was his reply to our question, put with a view to solicit correct information on the subject. Dan is here in the enjoyment of his ot. cum-dig seeking recreation from professional duties. By the way, we see mention made in the papers of Dan's name in connection with the Presidency. If the great Jester is successful in his "run," during the prevalent dominance of men and manners at Washington, we expect to see, at the end of his term, when he shall have resumed the motley, that a large addition has been made to his stock of "comic mules."—New Orleans Picayune, 6th ult.

IDAHO GORILLA.—We are informed that one of these wild beasts, in human shape, has taken up his abode in Boise valley, near Snake river. He is represented as being from six to seven feet high, and covered with a heavy coat of hair. He is swift on foot, outrunning horses with ease. Several parties now in pursuit, corraled him once, but he foiled them by knawing the rope which had been thrown over his head. His track represents that of a human being except that the toes are longer and appear, by the track made in the snow, to be hoofed. He has taken to the foot hills. Parties are still in pursuit, and when captured we predict a valuable addition to Barnum's family collection.—Idaho Times.

MEXICAN CUSTOM HOUSE RECEIPTS.—According to the official papers laid before the Spanish Government, the Mexican Custom House receipts, of the Gulf ports, were thus distributed on and since November 1st, viz: 50 per cent. to France, 16 per cent. to England, 8 per cent. to Spain; 25 per cent. of the receipts were pledged to various home debts. This leaves but 1 per cent. of the receipts of the custom houses of the Gulf to the Mexican Government proper. From the Pacific ports it does not receive a dime, at the custom houses on that side are all in the hands of the Liberals.

A sad accident has recently occurred in Cologne. The Baroness Deslanders, interested in the well known continental banking firm of Oppenheim & Co., became so distracted by the news of the sudden and dangerous illness of a favorite child she had left in Paris, that she leaped out of the window of her residence, and died of the injuries received a few days subsequent. After the had been taken up from the pavement on which she had fallen, she said: "What have I done? I thought I had wings, and that they would take me to my children."

YO TUNG is the name of a rich Chinese youth in San Francisco circles, known among Gothamite residents as the China Astor. This rich exotic must be an icteresting specimen of "the Flowery Kingdom."
